HISTORY OF THE MUSEUM

The Diocesan Museum is located in the setting of the cloisters of Sant'Eustorgio, integral part of one of the most antique monumental complexes of Milan, built from the joined units of the basilica and the Dominican convent, a thriving centre in the course of the centuries in an important area for the history of Milanese Christianity.

The permanent collection is constituted of over seven hundred works of art that span the period going from the 4th to the 21st century, including works of art by renowned artist Lucio Fontana. Within the Archbishop's Painting Gallery are the collections from the Milanese archbishops (part of Monti, Visconti, Riccardi collection and the complete collection of Erba Odescalchi).
